Coach driver Leslie Weinberg leaves Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court

M1 services coach crash driver faces Crown Court

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THIS is the driver of the National Express coach which crashed onto it's side at a motorway service station in Newport Pagnell.

Leslie Weinberg, 35, of Meyricle Road, West Bromwich, appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court yesterday morning charged with driving while under the influence of excess alcohol and dangerous driving.

On Monday, September 3 last year the 777 coach service began it's journey from Digbeth in Birmingham to Stansted Airport with 34 passengers on board.

At 4pm it was found lying on it's side at the top of the south-bound service station slip road, fewer than three miles from the Coachway bus station at Junction 14 which was it's scheduled stop.

Within minutes, police, fire crews and six ambulances were at the scene with two air ambulances.

Every passenger suffered injuries, six were seriously injured and one man's arm had to be amputated.

Police and crash investigators examine the coach at Newport Pagnell services

An air ambulance took a 61-year-old man to the JRII Hospital in Oxford.

Others injured included a 45-year-old woman from Church Stretton with a dislocated elbow, shoulder and facial injuries, a 28-year-old man from Coventry with a cracked knee, a 39-year-old woman from Worcester suffering a head injury, a 60-year-old man from France with cuts to the head, a 57-year-old woman from Australia, and a 20-year-old man from Poland.

Mr Weinberg had to be cut free from the driver's seat by firefighters. Police seized the vehicle's tachograph, which recorded its speed at the time of the smash.

On Tuesday Mr Weinberg, accompanied by his sister, listened as Dennis Burke, prosecuting, briefly described the events of that day.

Ghulam Sohail, defending, made no observations and Mr Weinberg made no indication of a plea.

He was released on unconditional bail and chairman of the magistrates, Patricia White, said the case would be committed to Aylesbury Crown Court in March.

ON THE BEAT WITH MK POLICE ANTI-SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR SQUAD

'Operation Disrupt'

Anti-social behaviour has become the number one cause of concern among residents across Milton Keynes. As Thames Valley Police begins a new operation targeting under-age drinking and anti-social behaviour, MK NEWS reporter ROB GIBSON and photographer ANDY HANDLEY joined officers using head cameras – their latest crime-fighting gadget

FERAL youths, teen gangs, happy slappers and ASBO kids have become common labels in the media and the general public over recent years and now they are under the spotlight again.

So how are police in Milton Keynes tackling the problem?

Last week they were given powers to seize alcohol from under-age and anti-social drinkers as part of Operation Disrupt, but for the first time in Milton Keynes they have also been handed head cameras to record any encounters with anti-social youths.

Anyone under 18 caught drinking in public will have their alcohol confiscated, while extra police patrols in problem areas will be used to deter anyone from anti-social behaviour.

The crackdown should please residents who, according to surveys by Neighbourhood Action Groups (NAGs) and the Community Safety Partnership, believe anti-social behaviour is the number one problem in their neighbourhoods.

So far anti-social behaviour has been named as the top priority in 12 of the city's estates, from 15 which have submitted results so far.

On Friday night I joined Operation Dita, which covered several estates in the west of the city.

In all, 32 bottles of alcohol were seized from under-age drinkers, including beer, vodka and wine.

Fourteen bottles of this drink was from the one group of youths who were drinking on a street in Stony Stratford.

The haul included Lambrini, Fosters, Stella Artois and cheap vodka.

Inspector Richard Nicholls said: "We know that alcohol is linked to violent behaviour and anti-social behaviour and so we are seeking to put a stop to this by seizing alcohol from young people in a public place.

"I also believe that a message needs to be sent to parents; do you know where your child is tonight?"

If parents do not know where there children are then the new head cams might enlighten them.

While their primary function is to record evidence to apply for dispersal orders, video evidence may also be used as a tool to educate parents about what their children have been up to.

If the trial is successful then cameras could become invaluable to the lone PCSO or neighbourhood officer who patrol our neighbourhoods.

Friday night began at Wolverton Police Station with a team briefing from Neighbourhood Specialist Officer Liz Rose.

Operation Dita is built around intelligence from residents who have been complaining about youths lurking around an underpass in Kensington Drive, Great Holm, as well as other areas in Loughton and Shenley Church End.

These 'underpass parties' are rumoured to attract upwards of 30 revellers and leave behind plenty of evidence including drugs paraphernalia, cigarette packets and empty bottles.

Sergeant Dave Matthews said: "It's anti-social and it's a quality of life issue for people.

"It is also about the littering and the aftermath, not just the yobbery.

"We seize vast amounts of alcohol.

"Some summer weeks we have seized 50 to 60 pints from under 18s in Stony Stratford alone.

"The PCSOs who find these youths are worth their weight in gold. They are our eyes and ears."

At 6pm a team consisting of police constables, Specials and PCSOs, travelled to Great Holm to begin their work.

Three officers were wearing the new cameras, attached to the side of their hats.

The cameras are about the size of a Maglite and are linked to a recording unit in the officer's belt.

They can record about eight hours of video with sound and have proven successful at other Forces.

"It will support my evidence," said PC Chris Bird as he wired up his headset for the first time.

"If you put what happens on a video screen the impact is much greater and you can witness the aggression.

"A simple statement doesn't have the same impact."

The device is already used by bouncers at some nightclubs in the city centre.

Although it is not the first time police will have access to video footage (previously evidence gatherers with hand held cameras have been used), the head cam sees exactly what the officer sees and can get much closer to the Prison bugging cop in court

THE ex-police officer from Milton Keynes who allegedly bugged an MP at Woodhill Prison has appeared in court on unrelated charges of leaking information to the media.

Former Thames Valley Detective Sergeant Mark Kearney, 48, from Middleton, is charged with eight counts of wilful misconduct in a public office.

He appeared at Kingston-Upon-Thames Crown Court for the first time on Monday to enter his plea.

Mr Kearney appeared alongside his 20-year-old son Harry Kearney, Milton Keynes Citizen reporter Sally Murrer, of Kensworth, Bedfordshire, and private detective, Derek Webb, from Harpenden, Hertfordshire.

Ms Murrer faces three charges of aiding and abetting misconduct in public office, Harry Kearney faces one count of aiding and abetting, counselling and procuring misconduct in a public office and Mr Webb is charged with five offences of aiding and abetting misconduct in a public office.

All four defendants were due to enter pleas on Monday but the hearing was adjourned until March while further papers are served.

The defendants were all released on bail.

Mark Kearney made the headlines last week as the officer who claimed to have bugged a meeting between Labour MP Sadiq Khan and his constituent Babar Ahmad at Woodhill Prison.

Posters have been tied to lamp posts across the area, informing people that police cameras will be in use.

When we approached the first group of youths, shortly after leaving the station, the officers were quick to inform them that their actions were being filmed.

The three boys were wearing hoodies and standing outside a Budgens store in Grange Farm with their BMX bikes.

All were under 16 and smoking.

Officers have been told to seize any cigarettes from anyone underage, as well as seizing CCTV footage from any store caught selling them to under age youths.

Officer Rose spent thirty-one minutes filling in a 'Stop and Account' form a series of tiny boxes used to record personal details, which must be completed at the scene.

This device is far less popular among officers than the head cam and proposals are underway to remove this piece of bureaucracy by the end of the year.

"For street incidents it can be quite a burden," said PC Bird.

The youths were told to go home and when we returned two hours later the shop front was still empty.

The footage from the head cam was surprisingly clear considering it was shot at night and captures the faces and words.

Such evidence will be used to apply to Milton Keynes Council for dispersal orders, which give police the power to move youths out of an area regardless of whether they are drinking, smoking or misbehaving.

As we continued the patrol a group of six or seven youths were identified hanging around a play area in Loughton.

While the officers move in to confiscate any alcohol and fill out the forms, a passing couple told us their views on the culprits.

"They are a pain in the neck," said the woman.

"It's just their presence and the drinking.

"They always stand on the corner smoking and drinking."

These residents seemed confident to air their views to Sgt Matthews and his team and the officers seemed keen to sympathise.

By the time we left the officers at 10pm several other youths had been 'dispersed', including two thirteen-year-old girls who seemed to appear on every street corner we passed.

The confiscated booze was taken to be destroyed and the video evidence from the head cams will now be assessed.

If the parents do have to ask where their children have been on a Friday night, police may soon be able to show them.

'Sustainable multi-agency' ban

STAFF at Milton Keynes Council are being given lessons in plain English to stop them from using complicated jargon.

Earlier this week councils across the country were ordered to stop using 'council-speak' that nobody else understands.

They have been provided with a list of 100 words or terms to avoid.

These include 'multi-agency', 'sustainable communities', 'good practice' and 'community engagement'.

The instruction has come from the Local Government Association, which represents the interests of councils throughout England and Wales, ahead of National Plain English Day.

Sir Simon Milton, the association's chairman, said: "Why do we have to have 'coterminous stakeholder engagement' when we could just 'talk to people' instead?

"Without explaining what a council does in proper English then local people will fail to understand its relevance to them or why they should bother to turn out and vote.

"Unless information is given to people to explain why their councils matter then local democracy will be threatened with extinction."

Peter Griffiths, the secretary of the Plain English Campaign, said that the jargon used by councils just baffles the public.

Milton Keynes Council says plain English lessons have been going on for almost two years to stop officers using incomprehensible terms when communicating with the public.

A spokesman said: "We do value plain English highly at Milton Keynes Council and try to make sure all our communications are as simple to understand as possible.

"We run plain English courses and we've had more than 250 people take part in these successfully."

Raise your voice on council rent increases

SIR – Can we thank all the tenants of Milton Keynes who filled in a rent increase questionnaire; we did a random house-to-house on Bradville and at Purbeck surgery and the Co-op at Stantonbury and met tenants at Netherfield shops.

Of those who replied 87 per cent of you stated you did not want a rent increase with many varied reasons leading with the state of the houses and poor repairs service.

Tonight at the cabinet meeting we put forward the figures but, of course, the Lib Dem cabinet voted for a 3.25 per cent increase.

We were surprised to learn from Cllr Irene Henderson that tenants on the Lakes Estate, through their residents' association, actually asked for a four per cent increase.

Perhaps the level of repairs and services are of a higher quality there?

There is the possibility of this decision being called in.

If any tenants want to discuss the issue of rent increases with either the Netherfield RA or Bradville North End RA you can contact us through the Tenants Resource Centre on 01908 676215.

Netherfield Residents' Association and Bradville North End Residents' Association

What IS affordable?

SIR – I am writing in response to your recent article with regard to Cllr Irene Henderson's announcement of the development of affordable housing to be built by Midsummer Housing Association in Whitethorns at Newport Pagnell.

It was stated that this development would benefit local people.

Building homes in an area like Newport Pagnell does not guarantee that the homes for sale or rent are exclusively allocated or sold to the local people of Newport Pagnell.

To suggest as much is misleading.

The reason for the demolition of the council-owned garages on this site was vandalism and antisocial behaviour as stated by Cllr Henderson, all this will do is move the problem on.

The council seems to have transferred this principle to Stacey Bushes with the closure of the Briar Hill sheltered housing scheme.

Is this the way the council intends to deal with antisocial behaviour?

What must be a concern is the transfer of this land to a housing association for free and the £271,000 social housing grant (tax payers' money) being contributed to the building of these homes, which will not be sold at cost price or rented any cheaper than council-owned housing.

I am sure there will be a long queue of housing associations wishing to avail themselves of the council's extravagant land give away for free or for £1.

Midsummer Housing was recently taken over by the Guinness Trust.

This seems to be par for the course where small local housing associations are taken over and merged in order to increase their property portfolios and buy up more land cheaply for development or not, this is happening more and more.

As regards to giving land for free to housing providers, you would think the council has a duty to get the best sale value for any of its assets and then reinvest it into the council stock.

Milton Keynes Council must consider itself to be debt free if councillors feel they have no need to do this.

The Whitethorns development could and should have been a council housing building scheme – publicly owned, publicly managed and democratically controlled as council housing is.

Housing associations in MK should not have a monopoly on providing so-called affordable housing, just because they call it affordable does not mean that it is, nor should they be the only ones receiving social housing grant.

Councils should have access to it too.

We need to build council housing in MK also.

Let's wish race abuse couple a better future

Moving on: Shaun Hussain outside the flats on Chester Close in Bletchley where he and his wife suffered racial abuse

SIR – It was good to read that there has been a positive outcome to the sad story of the young couple who lost their unborn baby as a result of racist behaviour (MK NEWS February 6).

This very unhappy episode touched the hearts of many people in Milton Keynes and, hopefully, the various agencies involved will have learned valuable lessons.

We must all hope that, as Navrita Atwal, director of the Milton Keynes Racial Equality Council, has said 'they will be able to start a new life that will enable them to live without the fear of racial harassment or abuse'.

That is the MK we all want to live in – let us all echo that sentiment and wish the family all the best for the future.

Dave Brunwin

No suitable house

SIR – I read with interest about the couple from Stirling House who have managed to be rehoused in a suitable property by Milton Keynes Council.

My daughter lives in a council house here in MK which is totally unsuitable for her needs, it is a three storey house my daughter has a spine problem and is on DLA she also has a nine-year-old daughter who has ME – both are in pain the majority of the time and yet MK council are insistent they do not have a suitable house for her.

She has also suffered abuse from a tenant in the house next which is a bedsit house for the past year until he went six weeks ago the police were involved but said their hands were tied and the council refused to move her .

I do feel sorry for this couple but find it difficult to accept that while a property can be found for them, my daughter may have to move out of Milton Keynes to find a suitable home.

So are the council negligent in not finding a property for my daughter?

Milton Keynes Council seem to forget that I moved here in 1972 along with hundreds of others to help make MK what it is today, but now it seems council tenants are conveniently forgotten.

I loved Milton Keynes but now I am not sure it is my city anymore

Contraceptive pellet

SIR – Now I've got up off the floor with laughter and been to the toilet, I thought I have got to reply about this stupid women with rabbits on her allotment.

What planet is she from?

Rabbits cause a lot of damage to young trees and shrubs and even more damage to vegetables.

I can understand it if she is growing the veg for the furry vermin but most people spend a lot of time working their nuts off to get fresh produce and if rabbits are causing problems then they need to be dealt with.

If she likes rabbits that much perhaps she could put cage traps down and when she catches any she can take them home.

As for contraceptives for rabbits – there aren't any – or does Mrs Burke now something the rest of us don't? I find the best contraceptive is a .22 pellet, that normally works.

I then take the furry thing home gut it and skin it then eat it (fantastic, low in fat).

Why does Mrs Burke think rabbits are here in the first place? They were brought here by the Romans for food.

I do a lot of ferreting and shooting to control other vermin, not just rabbits. Pigeons do a lot of damage as well, does Mrs Burke feed these as well?

If Mrs Burke and her friend Paula want to give up their allotment just because a couple of guys are doing their job, feel free, because there is a waiting list and I can't see their plots being empty for long.

Get in the real world women. These things happen every day.

If you want to moan about something moan about battery farming or something worthwhile – don't go crying about a few rabbits.

Officers from the police specialist underwater search and recovery team remove the body from Tongwell Lake

Man's body in lake

22-year-old spotted floating by office worker

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A MAN who was found dead in Tongwell Lake on Monday has been identified as 22-year-old David John Dudden of Maulden Gardens, Giffard Park.

An office worker spotted the body during his lunch break on Monday.

Police and a helicopter were called to Tongwell Lake at 1.30pm, where the man's body was floating.

Thames Valley Police's specialist search and recovery team arrived at the scene on the office estate just after 5pm.

Police put a cordon around the area to prevent onlookers witnessing the operation.

The search and rescue team retreived the body, which was just at the end of a pier near the Waterski Clubhouse, using a body board.

The incident is currently being treated as an unexplained death.

A post mortem will take place today (Wednesday).

The man who found the body was sent home from work in shock.

A woman who works on the office estate said: "The helicopter was hovering for so long as they were taking bird eye photos of the scene.

"The news about what happened spread quickly leaving most people in the offices in shock.

"We have been told that cause or circumstances of death are unconfirmed as yet."

Council set to fight London rubbish dumping demands

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Council is set to fight plans for the city to take thousands of tonnes of London's waste.

MK NEWS reported last week that a Government inspector's report on Milton Keynes Council's draft Waste Development Plan document (WDPD) has required the council to include details of how it will make specific provision to take 10 per cent of London's residual waste – 160,000 tonnes every year.

This would treble the amount of waste at the city's landfill site in Newton Longville.

Councillors say this is not environmentally sustainable and priority should be given to local waste.

The council is bound into making the changes the inspector demands and to adopting the plan as soon as possible.

However, a recommendation passed by the council's cabinet committee last Tuesday (February 8) calls for the council to state that it will not be coerced into receiving London waste as landfill.

It calls for the council to 'continue to seek to persuade the Government that London waste is best disposed of in London and not in Milton Keynes' and to call upon MP Phyllis Starkey to support the campaign.

Yet the cabinet also recommended that the council adopt the WDPD, as amended by the inspector's binding report, in line with regulations.

The recommendation was due to be discussed by full council last night when it was expected to get cross-party support.

MK NEWS revealed in 2007 how Milton Keynes already took some of the capital's waste when it was diverted from Brogborough after the site was closed for technical reasons.

That Brogborough site closed earlier this year, resulting in an anticipated increase of around 100,000 tonnes of waste per month being taken to Bletchley, with the rest being taken to Stewartby in Bedfordshire.

A spokeswoman for Waste Recyling Group, which owns the landfill sites, said it is too early to determine exactly how much of this waste is to come from London.

She added: "The increased waste input to Bletchley has been planned for a number of years and will help WRG meet its 2022 planning obligation for the closure of the site.

"The opening of the new access road and entrance to the site from the western end of the A4146 Stoke Hammond bypass has enabled the increase in lorry movements to be accommodated."

However, Douglas McCall, cabinet member for the enviroment, said the council's refuse vehicles have already been delayed by the increase in vehicles using the site.

"Obviously, if there is already traffic congestion being caused by diversion of waste from Brogborough, the council would be concerned about even more waste vehicles coming from London," he said.

‘Hands-off’ head ensures care kids get schooling

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A VIRTUAL head teacher is keeping a watchful eye on all the city’s children in care.

Tim Read, who the children have never met, is working out of the Saxon Court council offices.

His virtual school has around 145 pupils, but this changes weekly as children go into and out of care.

The children include those in foster care, local residential homes, and residential homes in other authorities.

Mr Read’s aim is to monitor and raise attendance, attainment and expectations for these youngsters, who range from four to 18-years-old.

He said: “National statistics for achievement, attendance, and exclusions are appalling.

“The idea behind the virtual head teacher job is that you act as though all those individual looked-after children are your responsibility.

“It is probably the most important element of my work.

“I many not be hands on with individual kids but this job is a really important one.”

The former teacher is assistant director of targeted educational support at Milton Keynes Council, but has been the virtual head master for three months as part of that role.

In that short time he has introduced several processes to ensure children in care are getting the support they need.

> The idea behind the virtual head teacher job is that you act as though all those individual looked-after children are your responsibility. I many not be hands on with individual kids but this job is a really important one
> – Virtual head teacher Tim Read, left

This includes a system called ‘welfare calls’, which will be live within six weeks.

Mr Read said: “We employ a company to phone every school every day to check the youngsters are at school.

“It is very cheap, about £1 or £2 a week per child. It gives us an immediate response.”

If the child is not at school their carer will be contacted.

Each looked after child is assigned to a teacher at their school who they can go to with problems and who will look out for them.

Teachers and foster carers are receiving training on how to deal with the issues the youngsters are facing.

A new computer programme is also being introduced, which will allow for children, teachers, foster carers and social workers to contribute to personal education plans for the children, which work like reports.

Currently this is done on paper and engaging the youngsters is difficult.

Mr Read said: “Children can record their wishes and views. It will be age specific, so a younger child will have a child-friendly sort of screen, which encourages them to participate.

“It’s in everyone’s interests that these kids perform – to give them the best future, to open doors for them. It’s an invetsment for them, and the schools because their results will go up.”

OAP victim of daylight distraction burglary

AN OAP was the victim of a distraction burglary in Hodge Lea.

The burglars targeted the elderly woman at her home in Kildonian Place between noon and 1.30pm last Tuesday. They told her they worked for the water board and needed to check her taps because of a flood further down the road.

While the victim stayed in the kitchen with one man, the other searched the bedroom, before they both left, stealing £90.

PC Matt Hemmings said: “These burglars are the lowest of the low, preying on elderly and vulnerable people in their own homes.

“The victim remembers seeing a water company van in the area around the time of the burglary and I am keen to speak to anyone who also saw this van or who has any information which could help catch these despicable thieves.

“Remember, the ‘water board’ does not exist.”

Police described the offenders as both in their thirties and tall.

Anyone with information can contact PC Hemmings on 0845 8 505 505.

Windrush House

Home for young homeless under fire from locals

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

YOUTHS staying at supported accommodation in Downhead Park are causing havoc in the neighbourhood, claim residents.

Local people say crime has increased dramatically since Windrush House opened in March 2007.

The ten one-bedroom flats, in Windrush Close, house homeless young people aged between 16 and 24.

The aim of the project is to help vulnerable tenants to move to independent living through one-to-one support working.

A local resident, who wishes to remain anonymous, said the flats have brought anti-social behaviour to the area with problems such as gangs fighting, graffiti, vandalism and swearing.

He said he has also seen suspicious activity outside the flats which suggests that tenants are dealing in drugs.

"It is obvious what is happening from the way residents come out of the hostel and wait at the top of the road to meet someone," he said.

"They then hand something over and walk back."

"You only have to look out of your window for a while before you see something."

He said he would like to see more action taken by police in response to the problem and better management at the accommodation.

"Residents feel very vulnerable and have had enough," he added.

Thames Valley Police confirmed that 22 crimes have been recorded in Windrush Close since April 2007.

These are a mixture of public order offences – generally the use of violence and/or intimidation by individuals or groups, or drunk and disorderly behaviour – criminal damage and theft.

Officers were called to the close on Saturday (February 9) after a resident reported two men were drug dealing, but an area search found nothing.

A spokesman for the police added that officers are carrying out regular patrols of the area.

The accommodation is run by the St Christopher's Fellowship charity, a provider of services for children, young people and vulnerable adults, on behalf of Milton Keynes Council and Bedfordshire Pilgrims Housing Association.

Roy O'Shaughnessy, director of development at St Christopher's Fellowship said he was 'surprised' to hear of the residents' concerns as no issues had been raised at their public meetings.

"As far as we know there have been no events in the last four to six months related to the accommodation, the residents or any guests of the residents," he said.

The incident on Saturday did not involve a resident of the home or anyone connected with a resident as far as they can determine.

"We will address any concerns brought to our attention," he added. "I encourage anyone with a concern to contact me in writing and we will fully investigate and respond."

Those with concerns can also contact PC Darren Exley-Nicholls, neighbourhood specialist officer, on 0845 8 505 505.

Calls to probe prison bugging

THE Government is under increasing pressure to investigate police operating at Woodhill Prison after this newspaper revealed that inmates and visitors are routinely bugged.

Last week a former prison officer from HMP Woodhill told MK NEWS that it is commonplace for police to bug meetings between inmates and visitors, after a former police officer admitted bugging an MP at the prison.

He said that police would 'specifically target' certain people.

Following the claims by our source a new 'whistle-blower' has emerged to raise more questions.

Political parties and human rights experts are now urging Justice Secretary Jack Straw to expand the Government inquiry to determine if legally protected conversations between inmates and lawyers were also bugged.

Last week Mark Kearney, who worked as a prison intelligence officer at Woodhill from 2003, told reporters he feared for his life after a court statement was leaked containing his confession to the controversial bugging.

In the statement Mr Kearney, 48, said he had been under 'significant pressure' from the Metropolitan Police to record conversations between MP Sadiq Khan and his constituent Babar Ahmad.

Police are alleged to have used microphones, antennae and transmitters hidden inside the legs of tables in the prison visiting area.

Cash and phone stolen at knifepoint

A WOMAN was robbed of her mobile phone and cash during a knifepoint robbery.

Police are appealing for witnesses after the incident on Nicholson Grove in Grange Farm, between 7pm and 7.30pm on Friday.

The woman was approached by two men who threatened her and stole her Nokia 6300 mobile.

DC Moyra Richardson said: "Luckily the victim was not injured but she has been left very shaken and upset. I am keen to speak to anyone who saw any suspicious activity in the area at the time or who recognises the description of the offender."

The first man is white, average build, around 5ft 7ins and in his late teens to early twenties.

He was wearing a dark coloured hooded top, dark trousers, dark trainers and a dark scarf.

The second man is white, stocky, around 5ft 10ins to 6ft and between 22 and 25-years-old.

Anyone with information can contact DC Richardson on 08458 505505.

Coroner slams hospital over death of baby

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Hospital is to be reported to the Department of Health after a 'catalogue of mistakes' led to the death of a new born baby.

After a three-day inquest the deputy coroner concluded last Thursday (February 8) that the death of baby Romy Mae Feast was contributed to by a 'systems and communication failure' at the hospital.

He slammed the lack of team work on the maternity unit and that experienced midwives felt unable to question the decisions of doctors.

"It is about time such unwritten rules are left in the 19th century where they belong and that obstetrics and gynaecology embrace the modern world," he said.

"It is a regrettable situation if the views of midwives who have 30 years' experience cannot be voiced and, if they are voiced, are disregarded."

Romy died at the hospital on June 2 last year.

Her mother Elizabeth Feast, from Harlow Crescent, Oxley Park was in her 39th week of pregnancy when she came to the hospital after the baby stopped moving from 9pm the night before and after feeling continuous spasms since midnight. Although monitoring showed the baby's heart rate was abnormal the medical team chose not to deliver the baby by Caesarean immediately.

Instead consultant Dr Ghaly Hanna, who was on call and working from home, chose to induce labour with a drug that was 'inappropriate and unsafe' as it would have put the poorly baby under further stress, the inquest heard.

Mrs Feast was unable to deliver the baby normally and it was not until 4.15pm that Romy was delivered by Caesarean.

The medical team's attempts to resuscitate her were unsuccessful and she was confirmed dead at 4.50pm. A pathologist said she died of a lack of oxygen to the brain and bleeding in the lungs.

The inquest heard her death may have been avoided if the caesarean was carried out earlier.

Deputy Coroner Tom Osborne gave a narrative verdict concluding that the trace recording the baby's heart beat was misinterpreted with the result that an emergency caesarean was delayed for three hours.

"Her death was contributed to by both a systems and communication failure," he said and added that he would be reporting the case to the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists.

Romy's parents said they were pleased with the verdict.

"We obviously can't get our daughter back but one of the outcomes we were hoping to get out of this was that we could help save another baby's life in the future," said Mrs Feast.

"I put my well-being and the life of my baby in the hands of the medically qualified team and they failed to perform.

"If I was to have any future pregnancies myself there is absolutely no way I would go anywhere near Milton Keynes Hospital after my experience."

Romy's father Grant Feast criticised the service provided when consultants are on call on evenings and weekends saying: "I wouldn't want to be an expectant mother going in with a problematic pregnancy out of hours, as the way it has come across it is definitely an inferior service."

Mary Sexton, the hospital's acting director of nursing, said: "Our processes and systems have been reviewed and revised to ensure that information is escalated appropriately and that appropriate action is undertaken to ensure that a similar incident does not occur."

'Definitely an inferior service': Liz and Grant Feast leave baby Romy's inquest

for children with cancer

PINK LADY® apples has joined forces with Great Ormond Street Children's Charity to help support its Kiss It Better appeal.

Now the January detox is over, why not try this toffee apple tartlet and recipe and help children with cancer at the same time? A 20p donation will be made to The Great Ormond Street Hospital's Kiss It Better appeal on every Pink Lady® polybag and tray pack of apples sold in Tesco stores throughout the country. The campaign will run from St Valentine's day, February 14, to Mothering Sunday, March 2. The Pink Lady® Kiss It Better polybags will be available throughout this period while stocks last. The Kiss It Better campaign, initiated by journalist Carmel Allen aims to raise £250,000 this year for research into childhood cancers. Carmel was inspired to start the campaign when her young daughter was treated for a rare form of cancer, neuroblastoma, at Great Ormond Street Hospital. No other apple is raised with more love than a Pink Lady® because it grows on the tree for longer than any other apple. This additional nurturing means a Pink Lady® apple develops its unique traits: a vivid pink blush, a perfect sweet tangy balance and a hint of effervescence. By picking Pink Lady® apples, you can rest assured that you are getting some of the best apples available. Only the highest quality apples in the orchard make it past the strict criteria to become a Pink Lady®, so look for the flowing heart logo to make sure you are getting the best apple for you and your family. The Pink Lady® Kiss It Better bags and packs of apples are only available in Tesco nationwide.

Pink Lady® Toffee Apple Tartlets
Makes 6

For the tartlets:
- 1½ - 2 Pink Lady® Apples
- 375g ready rolled puff pastry
- 4-5 tbsp bought thick toffee sauce (such as Dulce de leche)
- 1 egg, beaten
- icing sugar for dusting

For the cream:
- 150ml double cream
- 2 tbsp icing sugar, sieved
- 2 tbsp Calvados

Pre-heat the oven to 200°C/180°C fan ovens/gas mark 6

Halve, core and very thinly slice the Pink Lady® apples.

Cut the pastry into 6 circles about 10cm diameter, using a large pastry cutter or by cutting around a small plate. Place onto a lightly greased, or non-stick baking sheet, and score a small border of about 5mm-1cm around the edge of each one.

Put about 2 tsp of toffee sauce in the centre of each and then arrange the apple slices on top. Brush the top of the apples and the pastry edges with the egg and then fairly generously dust each one with icing sugar.

Place in the oven for 8-10 minutes until the pastry is puffed up and golden around the edges.

To make the cream, lightly whisk everything together until it forms soft peaks. Serve the warm toffee apple tartlets with a spoonful of the Calvados cream melting over the top.

Modern interior: Police remove ventilation and lighting equipment from the 'farm' in Kennet Drive, Bletchley

Cops up the heat on drug farmers

Growing weeds: Plants lay on the ground as police start taking down ventilation and lighting equipment

Soil erosion: A bedroom floor is covered in compost

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

CANNABIS 'farmers' turned a bedroom into a field to cultivate large supplies of the drug.

Police thermal imaging cameras helped to uncover the seventh cannabis farm found in Milton Keynes in the last fortnight - this time a three-bedroom house in Bletchley.

Officers raided the house at 8am on Thursday and found around 500 plants growing inside.

The floor of one bedroom was covered with soil which had been seeded with the Class C drug.

PC John Braithwaite, speaking to MK NEWS outside the home in Kennet Drive, said: "In the back bedroom they didn't even use plant pots.

"They were just going to grow the plants in soil on the floor. It's the first time I've seen that."

A police helicopter stumbled upon the farm after thermal imaging cameras showed high temperatures inside the house.

The air support unit informed officers on the ground who obtained a search warrant from Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court and stormed the house the following morning.

Officers from the tactical firearms group gained entry by smashing a door window and police dogs were on hand to pin down any occupants.

No-one was inside but the living room was filled with hundreds of fully-cultivated plants and hot lamps dangled from the ceiling.

Younger plants were found freshly potted downstairs, two bedrooms upstairs had also been used for cultivation and a handwritten logbook was found, suggesting daily activity.

Officers gutted the house of compost, cannabis, lighting and ventilation ducts, which were taken to be incinerated.

Samples from the plants were sent to a lab to determine their age and strength.

Officers spoke to neighbours and said they were working on several leads.

PC Braithwaite said: "This is going to disrupt the local Cannabis-users in the community and the people who have been doing this. This is in the middle of a busy residential area which children come through to go to school. We'll be here for six hours today and that takes us off the street but people can see what we are doing."

City casino plan a slippery slope

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

AN MP has warned of the dangers of building a Las Vegas-style casino at a popular drinking area.

It follows a leaked letter from the Department for Culture, Media and Sport last week, indicating that the city along with 15 other towns and cities across the country would be given the right to open a casino.

Proposals for an expansion to central Milton Keynes' Xscape building, to include a hotel, casino, bars and restaurants, have already been submitted to Milton Keynes Council.

But city MP Mark Lancaster feels the other suggested locations for a casino, at stadiummk, The Bowl, or the Leisure Plaza, are more sensible.

He said: "I am broadly supportive because I can see the economic benefits for Milton Keynes.

'To have a casino near where so many people drink would be a dangerous cocktail': city MP Mark Lancaster

"But the location has to be right, and I think that means it has to be out of town.

"Where I wouldn't want it to be for example is near the Theatre District. If I had a preference, somewhere near MK Dons would be ideal.

"Although we have made progress, we have still got major issues with problem gambling.

"To have a casino near where so many people drink would be a dangerous cocktail."

It will be down to the council to decide which of the possible sites will house a casino.

In January the Government awarded Milton Keynes a licence to be one of eight large casino's in the UK.

But there has been much uncertainty over whether the city and the other dentified regions will get small or large casinos.

But now Gordon Brown is expected to confirm that casinos will be built in all the locations except Manchester.

John Cove, council project leader for the casino development, said: "We have not received any official notification that anything has changed.

"We continue to wait on the government to decide after the review whether a large casino in Milton Keynes can go ahead."

Co-op cash for swimmers

A PROJECT to encourage disabled people in the Milton Keynes area to exercise is going swimmingly thanks to a £1,500 grant.

The Milton Keynes and District Branch of the Multiple Sclerosis Society will use the money to install steps at pools so that swimmers do not have to use a hoist to enter the water.

Committee member and club secretary Sandra Green said: "We are very grateful for this generous Co-operative grant. The steps will encourage a greater number of disabled people to use the swimming pool."

The Co-operative Community Fund offers grants of between £100 and £5,000, with local Co-op members' committees allocating awards based on a set of values and principles such as social responsibility and caring for others.

Approximately £160,000 is available annually to support charities and community groups in the region.

Co-operative's regional secretary Paul Cranfield added: "The fund can make a real and lasting contribution to local communities and we are really pleased to help support disabled people in Milton Keynes. Many community groups could benefit from an award, and we would certainly welcome their applications."

Application forms are available in Co-op stores.

Secure unit wants to raise perimeter fence

Nearby residents wonder why current cage is not now thought high enough

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A SECURE unit that houses psychiatric patients has applied for permission to erect a higher fence around the building.

The application by Eaglestone View on Chadwick Drive has set alarm bells ringing for nearby residents, who want to know why the fence needs to be made higher.

Currently it is three metres high, but now it could be increased to more than five metres to bring it in line with Department of Health guidelines.

Woughton Parish Council, to which the proposal was originally made, believes the new fence would look prison-like and has referred the issue to Milton Keynes Council to deal with.

Design guidance suggests that fences of 5.8 metres are necessary to limit anxiety about inmates absconding over fence. But the Department of Health no longer endorses this advice.

One nearby resident said: "Our main concern is why are they wanting to increase the height of the surrounding fence by a considerable amount? Who are they hoping to foist on our community next?

Fence me in: Secure psychiatric unit on Chadwick Drive, Eaglestone

"We already have another two treatment centres for the mentally ill, one of which is in the high security category. Enough is enough."

The proposed fence would be higher but will be located further into the grounds than the existing one, which would be removed.

Woughton Parish Council has said that it wants the proposal to be dealt with by MK Council due to a change in character of the local area.

The new fence would cover a 225 metre perimeter.

Plants around the current fence mean it is not very prominent from the outside.

The council's Development Control Committee will look at the proposal tomorrow night. It has been recommended that planning permission is granted.

Report claims city one of best in UK to buy a property

MILTON Keynes is the fourth best place to buy a property in Britain, according to a study for the Sunday Times.

The city was one of 20 named as the most fail-safe investment towns in the UK by the national paper.

This comes as predictions of falling house prices and a troubled economy leave people fearful of investing.

Research carried out for the newspaper by property consultancy Knight Frank took into account factors such as the affordability of housing, wages and unemployment, population growth and how qualified the locals are.

Milton Keynes came fourth behind Cambridge, York and Oxford.

The city's success, says the report, is down to its well-planned infrastructure, excellent transport links, particularly with London, and the ease of access to attractive countryside.

Mark Johnson, head of sales in Knight Frank's Milton Keynes office, said: "People want to come here."

"Everything you need you can walk to and, although they're putting in flats in the city centre, there aren't enough to feed demand."

Matthew Giggs, regional manager for Taylors estate agent added: "Milton Keynes is a perfect place to live as it has excellent commuter links, offers an excellent lifestyle and is great value for money."

A two-bed flat within walking distance of the station costs around £250,000.

Marathon man looks to raise £1,300 sponsor cash

A MARATHON runner is asking for help in reaching his £1,300 sponsorship target for a charity that gives disabled people sporting equipment.

Ryan James, of Severn Way, Bletchley, wants to help Get Kids Going in providing more children and adults up to the age of 24 with equipment such as lightweight wheelchairs.

He previously ran a race to raise money for a sick little girl who wanted to go to Disney.

He said: "After the last half marathon I did I went down to track and now focus on 400 metres so running the London Marathon is going to be a mammoth challenge for me as there is a lot of difference between a speed and endurance runner.

"I have a rather ambitious target of £1,300 to raise however if I want to smash the target amount if possible, as I can be quite ambitious and until April 13, the date of the marathon, I wont stop trying."

Places for People, Mr James' employer, has made a corporate pledge of £250 for him.

To reach his target in time for the race he will also be bag-packing in Asda and arranging a charity quiz night to which local businesses are asked to donate prizes.

Mr James' online sponsorship fundraising page is www.justgiving.com/ryanjames

City's concrete cows pull their socks up in support of MK Mile

RED and white hooped socks have been donned by the concrete cows in Midsummer Place to drum up support for Sport Relief.

The initiative, to help the poor, involves Milton Keynes hosting one of the flagship Sainsbury's Sport Relief Miles this spring.

Following the huge success of Sport Relief across the UK in 2006, a Mile event will be taking place in Milton Keynes on Sunday, March 16.

Milton Keynes Milers will have the unique opportunity to take to the streets on a route right through the heart of the town, along Midsummer Boulevard.

Places are limited but there are still some spaces left. Just log on to www.sportrelief.com.

Milton Keynes Milers can choose to do one, three or six miles, so can select the distance that is a challenge for them and make sure they get sponsored while they do it.

Sport Relief harnesses the power and passion of sport to change lives for the better. By doing sport, having fun and raising money, everyone can do good and feel good.

The money raised goes to help vulnerable people living incredibly tough lives both at home in the UK and in the world's poorest countries.

John Best chief executive of Milton Keynes Council said: "We're delighted that Milton Keynes has been selected to host this exciting event and are looking forward to seeing thousands of residents taking part, getting sponsored and raising money for Sport Relief."

Live coverage from the Mile events will be shown during The Sport Relief Mile Show on the day on BBC ONE.

Council claiming rent rise support

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE results of a consultation held on plans to increase the rent of 12,000 council houses are biased, according to a residents association.

Milton Keynes Council plans to increase the average rent by 3.25 per cent in April to meet the Goverment's new average weekly rent target level of more than £75 by 2011-12.

The increase means approximately an extra £2.23 a week for each house and would provide an extra £1.5million for the council's Housing Revenue Account.

Some tenants have objected to the proposals as they feel the service is poor, repairs are not carried out and that the rise would be unaffordable.

The proposals were approved by the cabinet on Tuesday, February 5 and full council was due to give the final go-ahead at its meeting last night.

The plans also include an increase of shared ownership rents of 2.86 per cent for 2008-09.

The council says it has made massive efforts to consult residents on the plans, including sending out a questionnaire to all individual residents.

However Margaret Burke, chairman of Bradville Northend Residents' Association, has criticised the way the consultation was managed, pointing out that the questionnaire did not give a box to vote for no rent increase.

"They have run roughshod over tenants' rights," she said.

Council has 'run roughshod' over tenants' rights: Margaret Burke, chairman of Bradville Northend Residents' Association

The questionnaire gave residents the chance to vote for increases between 3.25 per cent and 5 per cent, depending on how much money they wanted to be used in improving services.

The council says its received 250 responses in total, with 83 people voting for a 3.25 per cent increase, 33 for 3.5 per cent, 14 for 4 per cent and 14 for 5 per cent.

More than 100 either did not answer the question or suggested another amount.

The council did not have a record of how many of these voted for no increase, but 78 voted for 0 per cent in questionnaire forms collected by Bradville North End Residents' Association and Netherfield Residents' Association.

Cllr Irene Henderson, cabinet member for housing, said it was not an option to have no increase due to inflation and rising costs for repairs, heating and staff.

"The rise is below the level of inflation which means we are improving the service with the same amount of money" she said.

"We have kept rises below inflation for the last five years so it is good value for money."

She added that only two residents' associations have objected to the plans.

"We received overwhelming support for the 3.25 per cent increase," she said.

Foyer – a firm foundation

The Christian Foundation in Wolverton runs a scheme to give homeless, vulnerable youngsters a roof over their heads and help them get back on track for an independent future. MK NEWS reporter LAURA HANNAM chatted with a key worker and residents to find out how the service works

Key Worker Caroline Colgan with Paul White and Jessica Furneax outside the Christian Foundation in Wolverton

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD Jessica Furneaux needed help after a family break down four months ago.

She came to The Foyer, sheltered accommodation run by Milton Keynes Christian Foundation, where she was offered a place of safety and 24-hour support.

She was directed to counselling to help cope with her anger problems and is studying with the centre's Well Being project four days a week.

"We do aromatherapy, Indian head massage and things like that and we are getting a diploma at the end of it," she said.

"I love it, it is really good fun and so relaxing as well. I'm also doing maths and English exams."

When she has completed her course she hopes to move out to Australia with her parents and use her qualifications to find employment.

She said she has had lots of support from the centre to cope with her problems. "It is a really nice atmosphere, it's a really nice place to learn," she added. "It's helped me alot, I have come along so far already."

The Foundation Foyer is a joint project between the Foundation and Midsummer Housing Association set up around eight years ago.

It is funded by a Government programme called Supporting People.

The aim is to break the 'no home - no job' cycle by providing a comfortable place to live and a training structure with support and guidance that will help young people to become independent.

It provides accommodation for 16 youngsters aged between 17 and 25 who are experiencing housing problems, either being homeless, threatened with homelessness or in temporary or unsuitable accommodation, and need to develop the skills to be able to live on their own.

The young person must either be in or actively seeking training, further education or employment.

Caroline Colgan, key worker at the foundation said: "Our biggest thing that we ask them to do is an action plan so that we can identify where they have been, where they want to get to and how best we can help them to get where they want to be.

"We teach them the skills they need like interviewing techniques, CV building, how to present themselves and help them to identify realistic targets and work towards them.

"A lot of them want to go back to college but came out of school with no GCSEs, so we will pick them up on the literacy and numeracy that they need.

"It is about giving them confidence, independence and a chance."

As well as in-house training leading to a City & Guilds qualification, developing independent living skills, IT, literacy and numeracy, the Foundation also offers young people the chance to get work experience training with six different projects.

These include working in office administration at the community centre, cooking on the healthy eating project, market gardening and horticulture, child care and parenting, recycling and reuse services and fitness, beauty and alternative therapies.

The 'entry to employment', or e2e, projects are free and open to all young people in Milton Keynes aged 16 to 24. They can lead to an OCN (Open College Network) qualification, equivalent to a grade C GCSE.

Paul White, 23, stayed with The Foyer for four months after his parents moved to Spain two years ago.

"I was just sofa surfing around all my friends' houses for a while and I ended up sleeping rough for a few nights here and there," he said."I heard about The Foyer through Shelter as I was staying at the YMCA. I thought it was brilliant, I had a roof over my head every night."

Paul has made the most of the training , first taking part in the healthy eating project then completing an OCN qualification in administration and event planning.

The foundation has now helped him gain an outside work placement and receive sponsorship from Connaught and Midsummer Housing Association to complete a brick laying course at Milton Keynes College's construction school in Kiln Farm.

"I want to go to work with my brother, he is a brick layer and plasterer so this will give me all the skills to do it," he added.

"I think it's a good scheme for people who have been in bad situations."

He believes demand for schemes like this is high in Milton Keynes due to a lack of council housing.

He said: "I was on the council list for seven years before I moved to The Foyer and I never heard a thing."

Paul is now staying at Denton, the foundation's move-on house, where young people who have succeeded at training begin to get used to less support and more independence.

When they are ready, many are helped to get into council accommodation through a fast-track scheme, so they don't end up back on the streets.

Iraqi town planners in fact-finding visit

Dons' stadium on visitors' 'sight-seeing' list

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

Dons' home: Iraqis keen to see the stadiummk as a major sports stadium is planned for Najaf

IRAQI town planners are to visit Milton Keynes to learn from the new city's evolution.

The planners hope to gain some tips from the city's development to help regenerate their country after the Iraqi war.

They will be shown around the city by education charity Milton Keynes City Discovery Centre, based at Bradwell Abbey, tomorrow (Thursday, February 14).

They will spend the day learning about the development of Milton Keynes and the plans for future expansion.

The visitors will also have a chance to look over the maps, surveys and plan documents that have guided the new city's evolution since the 1970s and an extensive tour of local neighbourhoods is planned to show how Milton Keynes has fulfilled the goal of balanced community development.

The Iraqis are keen to see the newly completed stadiummk as a major sports stadium is planned for Najaf.

Sabina Crouch, education officer at the Discovery Centre, said: "The news from Iraq tends to leave us with the impression that the Iraqi people are merely passive observers of the destruction of their towns and cities with little aspiration for the future.

"However, visits like this demonstrate that there is a strong desire from Iraqis themselves to literally build a better future in the urban areas of Iraq.

"After all, the world's first city, Uruk, was created in the south of Iraq around 6000 years ago so there is something of an urban planning tradition in that part of the world."

Safety spot checks on building sites

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

The scaffold collapse at Jurys Inn which claimed a workman's life

SPOT checks are to be carried out on construction sites in a campaign to tackle poor safety standards.

The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) in Buckinghamshire is to inspect sites to ensure they are well organised, that equipment is properly installed and, contractors are working safely at height.

The campaign launch comes less than a month after an inquest found a number of equipment and installation flaws caused the collapse of scaffolding at the Jury's Inn, which led to the death of construction worker John Robinson.

The 49-year-old was working as a cladder on the scaffolding on Witan Gate, Milton Keynes when it came crashing to the ground on April 11 2006.

He died three days later in hospital from a blood clot, which experts say was triggered by the fall.

The Health and Safety Executive investigation is ongoing and will identify whether prosecutions can be brought.

In 2006/07 there were 20 major injuries in the construction industry in Milton Keynes and one member of the public was killed.

HSE's principal inspector of construction for Buckinghamshire, Peter Galsworthy, said: "It is totally unacceptable that so many lives have been lost and continue to be put at risk on construction sites, particularly within the refurbishment sector."

"We will continue to take firm action against those who ignore safety precautions.''

During a similar spot check initiative carried out last summer 173 sites were inspected across the South East, with 40 enforcement notices issued.

Maternity 'priority' for hospital cash

NEARLY two million pounds will be invested in health services to improve 'safety and quality' according to Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust.

Dr Nicholas Hicks, the newly appointed chief executive at the PCT, and director of public health, announced £1.9 million of immediate investments.

The money will be split between:

- The recruitment of additional midwives at Milton Keynes Hospital
- Speeding up the provision of wheelchairs to patients
- More medical equipment for loan by patients in their own homes
- Infection control initiatives
- Building maintenance
- Clearing a current backlog of patients waiting for restorative dental surgery
- Buying additional dentistry time to reduce waits for other NHS patients
- Specialist workers to help reduce teenage pregnancies

Dr Hicks said: "This package of investments will make a significant improvement to a range of hospital and community services used by the people of Milton Keynes.

"Among those to benefit include priority areas such as maternity services and infection control.

"In the reformed NHS, the Primary Care Trust is the agent of the public.

"It receives a large amount of tax payer money which it must use to improve health, reduce inequalities in health and make sure people have convenient access to safe high quality services. Safety and quality must be our top priority."

Free help for 'domestic' victims

VICTIMS of domestic abuse are being encouraged to speak out with the launch of The National Centre for Domestic Violence (NCDV).

NCDV is a registered charity that provides a service to all people who suffer from domestic abuse, completely free of charge.

The charity offers advice and support to victims regardless of age, race, gender, sexuality or financial circumstances and they aim to get cases to court within 24 hours or on the first working day after initial contact.

Steve Connor, chief executive of NCDV, said "Domestic abuse is a cowardly and horrific crime that affects all sectors of society. I'm confident that by standing together with Thames Valley Police we will send out a message that this crime will not be tolerated any longer and everything will be done to bring any perpetrators to justice.

"For the first time, victims of domestic violence within the Thames Valley area will be able to access fast free legal advice and support through the civil court system regardless of age, gender, race, sexual orientation or financial circumstances".

All Bar One

Play your cards right on St Valentine's night

SINGLES are getting their own special dating night at All Bar One this Valentine's Day.

If you won't be having a cosy meal by candlelight, why not indulge in some light-thearted dating fun?

The Midsummer Boulevard bar is offering itself as a refuge for singles wanting to get away from the sickly sweet cards and gifts.

Plus there's the added bonus of an opportunity to pull your own ace from the pack.

Female visitors will be given a red suited card and guys a black one, leaving guests with the challenge of meeting up with the person holding the corresponding card.

All Bar One will even aid the introductions by buying the couple a drink when they take the matched playing cards to the bar.

And unlike most fund-sapping Valentine's Day events, the venue will give cupid's arrow a chance to hit your heart without spearing your wallet - with All Bar One discounting champagne, producing a one off February 14 cocktail menu and selecting a mix of classic and modern music tracks to fit the mood.

All Bar One manager Rachel Morgan is looking forward to the evening and believes the venue offers the perfect environment to enjoy the occasion.

She said: "St Valentine's Day is marketed so seriously in the run up to February 14 and it can all be rather depressing if you're not the kind of person who wants candlelight and poetry, so we thought we'd be a bit mischievous and have some fun.

"We have created some Valentine's cocktails and are running a champagne offer to give people the chance to treat the evening a bit differently without breaking the bank and our take on 'speed dating' with the cards should give people a laugh.

"We are not expecting it to be taken too seriously but, who knows, maybe someone will be dealt a winning hand?"

Back Pain?

Cyber crime course on offer at OU

A NEW postgraduate 'cyber-crime' course from the Open University has been launched providing an introduction to the world of digital evidence collection, forensic computing and IT incident management.

Course contributor, Peter Sommer said: "IT related crimes are more prolific and businesses have to guard themselves against a multitude of issues: fraud, illegal downloads, theft of data and online bullying, for instance. Cyber crime is a major issue: in addition to the spectacular events that capture media attention, most businesses are likely, over a 12-month period, to suffer from incidents where digital investigation and evidence are required, for example, disputed transactions, employee disputes, minor frauds and attacks.

Students on the course will use authentic computer forensic tools during investigations of specially prepared scenarios that replicate real-life situations, developed with input from East of England digital forensic consultancy Evidence Talks Ltd.

Course team chairman Blaine Price said: "An understanding of the basics of computer forensics is becoming more and more important for a wide range of professionals. But in contrast to the high-profile media representations of the subject on TV shows like CSI and Spooks, this course is not aimed just at 'techies' - it also teaches skills importantfor managers and those with legal interests at companies of just about any size."

Another fine mess for city litter louts

LITTER louts are facing up to being hit in the pocket for dropping rubbish on the streets of Milton Keynes.

Last year more than double the number of fixed penalty notices were issued to litter bugs and the vast majority (94 per cent) paid the fines promptly.

But for the remaining six per cent the council has a policy of taking all non-payers to court and has a 100 per cent conviction rate with hefty fines imposed. An approach aimed at deterring other people from littering.

In 2006, 18 people were caught dropping litter but last year the council took a tougher approach and 42 people were fined.

Every year Milton Keynes Council spends more than £4m cleaning up the streets of the city and the more litter that is dropped the more residents pay in council tax to cover the costs of collection.

In the UK the total number of fixed penalty notices issued for litter rose by 32 per cent from 33,033 in 2005/6 to 43,624 in 2006/07.

Cllr Douglas McCall, cabinet member responsible for environment, said: "It is regrettable that we have to resort to giving fixed penalties as we would much sooner that people took a responsible attitude and simply put their litter in a bin.

"We have bins located around the city and even if there is not a bin near then people should then take their rubbish home with them for either recycling or for the normal doorstep collection."

Minister for Local Environment Quality Jonathan Shaw said: "Ask communities what concerns them most about the area they live in and litter is near the top of list. Residents are right to expect their council to take a tough stance.

"I'm encouraged to see that more local authorities are using the powers Government has provided to penalise people who are ruining our streets with thoughtless offences like littering.

"But fixed penalty notices are only effective if local authorities take steps to ensure that they are paid and, if they're not, that effective action is taken at local level.

"I'm pleased to see that this has followed through in the results with an increase in payment rates, although there is still more to do."

Ofsted plus for Citischool

THE 'school without walls', Citischool, has gained approval from national regulatory body Ofsted in their latest inspection.

The report said the independent school provides a 'satisfactory' education for its students and also demonstrates a number of strengths.

These included the school's 'effective alternative provision for students which enables them to develop relevant skills for future employment, supported by good welfare, health and safety procedures'.

Credit was also given to the supportive ethos of the school and the variety of learning experiences with students gaining skills for their future economic well-being.

Work placements and the curriculum are helping students to become better citizens by understanding the need to work with the community. The school is run by Countec, an Education Business Partnership initiative.

Tom Bulman, general manager at the organisation, said: "Succeeding in renewing our Ofsted inspection profile acknowledges Citischool's excellence in the care of young people who have not succeeded in other schools and a testament to the talent and commitment of its staff".

Citischool is based on a model of employer-based learning which aims to prepare 15-16 year old students for employment, lifelong learning and active citizenship by providing an active learning experience.

Playground opening goes with a swing

CHILDREN have been enjoying a new play area after council tenants campaigned to win a £15,000 grant.

Pupils from Falconhurst School and nearby residents officially opened the playground in Harrier Way, Eaglestone, last Wednesday.

The funding is part of an £80,000 pot of cash from Milton Keynes Council Housing Fund aimed at improving the quality of life on Milton Keynes housing estates.

In the past the fund has supported projects ranging from a bingo machine to a sheltered housing project.

Cllr Irene Henderson, cabinet member responsible for housing, said: "The council felt it important to set aside some money so that we can carry out community improvements by working with tenants to make their ideas happen.

"A community project such as the one at Eaglestone is just one example of how the fund has helped make a difference to the local community."

Another project to benefit from the fund is a garden makeover for a sheltered housing scheme at Durrans Court, Fenny Stratford.

Council tenants interested in getting a community project off the ground can contact Paula Mason on 01908 676215 to find out more.

Brush strokes: Hazeley and Abbeys schools pupils show off their work at MK Hospital

Kids add splash of colour to hospital children's ward

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

SCHOOLCHILDREN proudly showed off their artwork which has brought colour to the Children's Ward at Milton Keynes Hospital.

Sick children from the ward and students from Abbeys Primary School in Bletchley and Hazeley Secondary School created the innovative piece, which was unveiled last Wednesday.

The project began in November, with MK Arts for Health, an arts charity based within the hospital, working alongside the hospital's capital projects team.

Artist and director of MK Arts for Health Helen Taylor taught children how to use press printing for the piece, which represents 'Milton Keynes as a Green City'.

Natasha Lee, aged 11, from Abbeys Primary School, said: "I really enjoyed it.

"We used rollers to spread the paint and I thought I would use leaves and trees to show it was Autumn."

Rhianna Green, 15, from year ten at Hazeley Secondary School, said: "It looks really nice and it was good to work on a project like this.

"It makes the hospital happier and brightens things up."

Mrs Taylor said: "The printmaking activity provided a stimulating diversion for children on the ward, helping to take their minds off their treatment.

"The arts have a powerful ability to inspire and support people of all ages and can be a crucial part of the healing process. Art can have a therapeutic value in hospitals. Paintings, sculptures and installations have a beneficial effect, and can be stimulating or soothing, creating a pleasant environment for patients, staff and visitors."

Don't leave a Valentine's 'calling card' – warning

HEALTH experts at Milton Keynes Hospital are advising lovers to stay safe this Valentine's Day.

As what is supposed to be the most romantic day of the year approaches, staff from the hospital's sexual health centre are reminding people about the dangers of sexually transmitted infections and the need for safe sex.

A statement said: 'Romance and sex are often intertwined but it is important to remember that if you are sexually active you could be at risk of contracting a sexually transmitted infection (STI), including HIV'.

It advised people celebrating Valentine's Day to protect themselves by 'knowing your partner's sexual history, using a condom and getting tested and treated'.

According to the service, Milton Keynes has seen decreases in chlamydia, genital warts and gonorrhoea from 2001 to 2005, but there have been increases in syphilis and genital herpes.

Since 2001 there has been a year on year increase in the number of people with HIV in Milton Keyes, reflecting the national trend.

There are currently around 167 people receiving care for HIV or AIDS in Milton Keynes.

Sue Burridge, senior health advisor, said: "We're working hard to improve the health of the local population but more people need to step forward for sexual health screening to help reduce the number of undiagnosed people in the community.

"These tests make for a more personal experience for young people."

The centre has a dedicated team of sexual health advisers, HIV and GUM specialist nurses, consultants and doctors who effectively offer appointments within 48 hours of a request being made.

To book an appointment call 01908 243860.

Win theatre tickets to see Rafta Rafta

THE hilarious family drama Rafta Rafta is coming to Milton Keynes and you could win some tickets.

This critically acclaimed production comes to Milton Keynes Theatre from February 26 to March 1 following a sell-out run at the National Theatre in London, and is a hugely warm-hearted tale of close-knit Indian family life in England written by the author of East is East, Ayub-Khan-Din.

The wedding feast is over and his father's dancing the bhangra, but the groom himself is busy on the net. And when it's time for bed, he's so woefully inhibited by the proximity of his parents, let alone his brother's childish pranks, that his beautiful virgin bride remains just that. Six weeks later, the whole family start to panic.

Much-loved Bollywood actor Harish Patel plays the groom's father in this smash-hit comedy. He has a long established career in Indian cinema, having appeared in over 80 Bollywood films. He played himself in the recent film Chicken Tikka Masala and has frequently appeared on stage with the Indian National Theatre. Other screen credits include The Buddha of Suburbia, My Son the Fanatic, and he was most recently seen alongside comic actor Simon Pegg in Run, Fat Boy, Run.

Bollywood legend Harish Patel, above, plays the father of the groom in Rafta, Rafta at MK Theatre from Tuesday, February 26

Salon opening is a cut above

A STAR of pop band Boyzone has opened a new salon in Crownhill.

Shane Lynch cut the ribbon to open the second Arcana Salon in Milton Keynes.

The star enjoyed some shiatsu massage in the salon's purpose built hair spa.

The salon, in Lennon Drive, Crownhill, offers hair, beauty and specialist treatments.

Owner Debbie Elderton opened her first Arcana Salon in Shenley Brook End four years ago.

The new salon's opening follows Arcana's success over the last few years, including coming in the top three finalists in the UK's Most Wanted Local Salon 2007, being nominated for Head & Shoulders' 'Nation's Favourite Hairdresser' award and achieving a five star Good Salon Guide rating.

Mrs Elderton said: "We would really like to thank our clients and would like to invite them to our fabulous new hair and beauty spa just around the corner."

New bar is set to liven thehub:mk

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A SWANKY new bar is coming to thehub:mk.

The Living Room, already a favourite in bigger cities such as London, Manchester and Edinburgh, will feature an upmarket restaurant and piano bar with an outdoor terrace overlooking the central piazza.

It is due to open on the corner of Witan Gate and Midsummer Boulevard in summer 2008.

The Living Room will join the offices, hotels, retail outlets, cafes, bars/restaurants and apartments already situated at the new central MK development.

The acquisition of the site in Milton Keynes has been a long awaited find for The Living Room Group, which has been searching for a venue in the city for the past four years.

It will create 50 new city jobs.

A varied and interesting menu includes a selection of dishes with international and European influence, as well as 'home comforts' which fulfil the popular gastro-pub dimension.

Food is served from midday until late and if guests time their arrival well, they will get the chance to listen to one of The Living Room's resident musicians perform live music from the legendary baby grand piano.

Managing director of The Living Room Group, Danny Fox, said: "We are delighted to be part of thehub:mk it's an exciting development for both Milton Keynes and ourselves and we're looking forward to what will be the first new The Living Room to open in over two years.

"Its reputation for great food and drink, coupled with excellent service and chic surroundings makes The Living Room a favourite destination for both regular guests and occasional visitors."

Steve Rice, associate director of developer Frontier Estates, said: "To have a restaurant and bar of this calibre is a tremendous addition to thehub:mk and Milton Keynes."

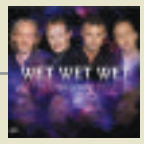
MUSIC REVIEWS



WEIGHTLESS
Wet Wet Wet

THERE are few things on earth more irritating than a Wet Wet Wet ballad.

That's just my opinion of course, and seeing as in their heyday most of their chart-toppers were slow numbers, I'm probably in the minority on this one.

However, this one should allay the fears of any of their fans who wondered whether they could recapture the old magic, because it seems that they have.

How do I know this? Simple, it's just as tedious as Temptation or Goodnight Girl, only with a slightly updated sound to it.

At least this single sounds like it's being sung by Marti Pellow, because the last one didn't, but all the same it's the sort of thing you'd expect to see someone's parents dancing to at a wedding reception.

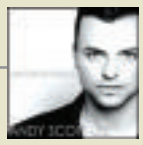
WOW
Kylie Minogue

OH, this is disappointing. After the rather wonderful 2 Hearts, Kylie reverts back to bog-standard pop tunes.

There's more than a touch of the 'Tonight Matthew, I'm going to be Madonna circa 1985' about this one and, although it jumps around the room with a happy smiling face, you'll find more depth in a paddling pool.

Here we are a few months after 2 Hearts came out, and I can still listen to that one quite happily, but I've only heard this four or five times and I'm sick to death of it.

Kylie Minogue's proved that her music is far better when she experiments (her duet with Nick Cave, for instance), and that in turn proves she's far too good for stuff like this.



UNFORGETTABLE
Andy Scott-Lee

I BEG to differ.

JUST
Mark Ronson

NOW then, on the other end of the scale from Wet Wet Wet ballads, when Radiohead turn out a really, really good tune there's not many bands around that can get near them.

It has to be said though, as much as I appreciated Mark Ronson's attempt to update the Smiths for a modern-day audience, the singles that followed it have had something of a 'novelty wearing off' factor, and sadly, this version of one of Radiohead's finest ever moments doesn't quite reverse the overall downward trajectory.

Mind you, there's clearly a lot of respect being paid to the original, even the video pays homage to the original, which is a nice touch.

THE SUN GOES DOWN
David Jordan

MAYBE it's because I'm old enough to remember the 80s, but this tune reminds me a little bit of What's The Colour Of Money by Hollywood Beyond.

It must be, if I'd have been born in the 90s I wouldn't know it at all, would I?

It's a fairly simple idea – give your drummer a sledgehammer instead of a drumstick, get a couple of guitarists to strum away in the background, borrow one of Mark Ronson's trumpeters for the middle bit and then sing over the top. Piece of cake.

ARTSFUNDING

THE arts in Milton Keynes have received a major boost

Arts Council England, South East, has announced that the arts in Milton Keynes are to receive more than £37,000 over the next three years.

The news comes as part of the Arts Council's latest funding round to arts organisations, which sees the largest ever cash injection to the arts across the south east.

The strategy is designed to shape and support an arts sector in the region committed to delivering excellent art to the widest range of people, and one empowered to take artistic risk.

Felicity Harvest, executive director at Arts Council England, South East, said: "The future of the arts looks bright in the hands of these fantastic arts organisations.

"The arts have helped make Milton Keynes the rich cultural hub it has become over the last 40 years. Our increased investment will help bring more great art to an even wider audience in the future."

Music lovers can expect an exciting programme ranging from jazz and pop to classical and world music, thanks to a three-year grant to The Stables.

This latest Arts Council award will help the venue bring exciting talents to their new performance space, Stage 2, which opened last year.

Gallery goers will be pleased to hear that Milton Keynes Gallery, which offers free entry to between six and eight international exhibitions each year, is also in line for increased funds.

Michael Stanley, gallery director, said: "We're delighted with the news that our work has been recognised by the Arts Council in this way. We are an internationally renowned gallery with our feet firmly planted in the heart of the local community.

"We look forward to continuing to bring Milton Keynes an exciting programme of inspiring and though provoking contemporary art in the years to come."

IN THE PARKS

Junior rangers – born to be wild

ACROSS the city a new type of park ranger is being nutured – one that, as well as loving parks, hunts for bugs, takes care of wildlife, builds dens, tracks animals, meets new friends and has fun.

Around twenty junior rangers, aged between 9 and 12, can be found in a park near you. Knee-high to a grasshopper the rangers are mad about wildlife , taking care of their environment and making sure that parks are great places to visit.

To date the young rangers have been bug-hunting, moth and bat spotting, enjoyed a day-long ramble and organised a sponsored litter clean-up at one of the city's ancient woods. In the next few months they're planning to go camping, taking a forest walk in a local country park and build nest boxes to help our feathered friends.

Gordon Redford, Junior Ranger Leader, said: "While the kids enjoy getting fresh air and watching wildlife, they're also team building, caring for their community and hopefully gaining an understanding and respect for green spaces everywhere in Milton Keynes.

Nowadays a lot of kids don't get the opportunity to get plenty of fresh air and have great outdoor experiences with other kids.

We wanted to create a club that helped children explore the great outdoors, where they could meet new friends and learn new skills but ultimately we want them to have fun in our fantastic parks.

It's great to see young rangers blossoming and introducing their own friends and family to the beauty of our parks. We've grown in numbers and we hope this year we'll be inspiring more children to become mini park rangers."

There are still spaces for children to become junior rangers - ideally kids should be up for adventure, enjoy being outdoors, interested in wildlife and don't mind getting damp or muddy.

The junior rangers meet once a month on a Saturday morning between 10.00 and 12.30. The next meeting will take place on Saturday 16 February at Salcey Forest.

Other meetings will take place at different park locations across Milton Keynes and there is a charge of £1 per session to cover refreshments.

Interested in becoming a junior ranger? Contact Gordon Redford on 01908 233600 or visit www.theparkstrust.com for further information.

TASTELIFE

THE SWAN
Wavendon Road, Salford
Tel: 01905 281008
Reviewed by Simone Corgan

SURROUNDED by willow trees, The Swan has a stunning garden facility, ideal for enjoying a refreshing drink or al fresco dining on those warm spring and summer evenings with ample seating and an array of feature lighting.

Inside the bar and restaurant has a clean, contemporary design. A variety of seating options and tables are available in the bar to suit individuals, couples or large groups.

The menu aims to please with a selection of dishes, including garlic prawns with tomatoes, chick peas and toast available as a starter or as a main should they take your fancy.

To start I chose home made soup of the day (£4) which was a delicious roasted tomato served with crusty white bread, while my guest went for the grilled goat cheese, pear and walnut salad (£6.50) beautifully presented on a bed of mixed green salad leaves.

For my main course I toyed with choosing the roast free range chicken served with parsnip gratin and curly kale (£12.75) but opted for the household favourite sausage and mash (£9.50). Thinking that would not be enough I also ordered a side bowl of chips (£2.50).

However, my eyes had been bigger than my belly, as two massive sausages, surrounded by creamy mash and soaked in tasty gravy presented a huge challenge.

Like their chicken and eggs, The Swan only uses free range pork, and my sausages were cooked to perfection.

My guest informed me her pork T-bone and lima beans and corn (£13) supported by mini pillars of corn on the cob and butter beans was deliciously finished with a smoky sauce.

Despite being full to the brim I can never turn down dessert, so the light option of mango and passion fruit sorbet (£5) was perfect for my sweet tooth while my guest's baked honey cheesecake (£5) from the specials board certainly did not disappoint.

Anniversary Celebrations!

10 years ago I was overweight, out of control and obsessed with food. After five miscarriages I was suffering from severe depression and low self esteem. I was a size 24 and getting bigger. I was desperate and tried everything to no avail.

This is her story.

One day a friend told me about SureSlim and it changed my life. The SureSlim consultant explained how the eating plan was formulated to balance my metabolism. Each person has a blood test, which not only determines whether any medical condition such as diabetes, high cholesterol or gout exist, but also checks for other pre-existing conditions that might prevent weight loss, for instance a Thyroid malfunction. The blood test also helps the SureSlim team develop an individual tailored eating plan for each client.

My 25 year battle with weight was over!

The weight stayed off – I have learnt what foods my body can cope with.

After losing 35kgs (77lbs) I went onto the SureSlim Lifestyle Plan which reintroduced on a regular basis the foods which would normally cause me to gain weight.

To my amazement the weight stayed off and I have learnt what foods my body can cope with. ■

MKBUSINESS

MK low pay

THE average advertised salary in Milton Keynes is now £29,710 a year according to new data just released.

That's £2,497 less than the average UK salary of £32,207 a year.

Data from 6,139 jobs advertised in Milton Keynes between July and December 2007 was analysed by jobs search engine AllTheTopBananas.com.

Across the UK it looked at more than 870,000 jobs to produce its January Monthly Salary Index.

The website's analysts found the average salary advertised was £32,207. That's £238 more than the average in last month's index.

In all, the average advertised salary has gone up £917 since the salary index was introduced in October last year.

Dave Martin, the MD of AllTheTopBananas.com, said: "While people are actively worrying about the performance of the economy, we are seeing a definite upwards trend in advertised salaries.

"This suggests that maybe businesses are finding it harder to attract the right staff, and are upping their advertised offers. Throughout 2008 we will watch with interest to see if this trend continues."

The Monthly Salary Index is online at www.AllTheTopBananas.com/salary.

Store hits target

THE John Lewis department store based in thecentre:mk in Milton Keynes has reached its £100 million sales target with hours to spare.

The store set its annual target back in April 2007 and it was touch and go whether or not they would achieve it within the financial year, but at 9.46am on Saturday they announced to their partners that they had taken more in one year than ever before.

Managing director of the Milton Keynes branch, Deborah Strazza, said: " The partners at Milton Keynes have really pulled together to make this possible and it is great recognition for the team's hard work. We made it on the last trading day of the year with 9 hours to spare and there was a real buzz around the shop. This acheivement is a testament to the skill and commitment of our Partners both on the selling floor and behind the scenes."

In a year that has seen many retailers struggling, the John Lewis Partnership has pulled ahead of the competition not just financially but also winning top spot in the Verdict consumer satisfaction index, January 2008.

Lake business park is snapped up for £32.5m

LASALLE Investment Management has announced the purchase of Caledecotte Lake Business Park, Milton Keynes, on behalf of the LaSalle UK Ventures Fund.

The property was acquired for £32.5 million (approx. ¨41 mln.).

Caledecotte Lake Business Park comprises of a multi-let office park, arranged in seven pavilion-style buildings totaling 170,000 ft with an excellent car parking ratio of 1:240 ft.

LaSalle have entered into a Development Management Agreement with Frontier Estates, who are a tenant on the park, to intensively manage and reposition the estate as the premier out of town office location in Milton Keynes.

The business plan includes refurbishment, modernization of estate signage and branding and improvement of landscaping.

There is also the prospect of infill development given the low site coverage.

‘I’m sorry, I can’t answer that question’

INTERVIEWEES are still confused about what a potential empoyer can and cannot ask them during the recruitment process, says the new Which? CV and Interview Handbook, published this month.

What were once standard questions on an application form or during an interview – such as age, length of experience and religious views – are now illegal under discrimination legislation, warns the Which? Essential guide.

Employers found to be asking these questions during recruitment and using the information to discriminate against candidates, can expect to pay a fine and discrimination payouts are unlimited.

To remain on the right side of the law, interviewers must steer clear of no go questions such as:

- Are you married?
- What are your childcare arrangements?
- Are you gay?
- Are you planning to start a family soon?
- What political party do you support?

Many candidates don’t realise they may be entitled to request flexible hours or a job share and that employers are required to make reasonable adjustments to accomodate disabilities.

Sue Tumelty, author of the Which? CV and Interview Handbook said: “Long gone are the bad old days when a nervous interviewee had to answer all sorts of questions about their lifestyle and their personal views, rather than their ability to do the job, on their age, sex or religious views.

“For example, they’ve no business asking about these things, so interviewees are in no way compelled to answer.

“It helps to be aware of what you can and cannot be asked, so that you can feel confident in politely declining to answer any questions that make you feel uncomfortable.”

> Long gone are the bad old days when a nervous interviewee had to answer all sorts of questions about their lifestyle and their personal views

Armchair seats for exclusive Lounge

CITROEN is taking the Compact MPV to new levels of luxury with the introduction of the Lounge, a very special edition of the Company's multi-award winning C4 Picasso, created uniquely for the UK market.

The marque's popular family car has been given a prestigious upgrade to create a stylish and distinctive vehicle that combines a sleek and dynamic exterior with a spacious and luxurious interior.

Perfect for those looking to travel in style, the C4 Picasso Lounge is full of exclusive equipment such as full black leather upholstery for the four large individual armchair style seats, chrome wheels and a vast panoramic sunroof to ensure the Lounge stands out from the crowd.

With its curvaceous black bodywork, sporty rear spoiler and special chrome grille, the C4 Picasso Lounge's exterior communicates status, style and individuality. Inside, the car's sharp design exudes quality, refinement, comfort and well-being.

The four individual luxury leather upholstered chairs, complete with adjustable head and armrests offer maximum space and comfort for all occupants, whilst their aural comfort is taken care of by laminated windows to reduce road noise and a Philips designed NXT sound-system with state-of-the-art flat-panel speaker technology to produce a clearer, all-round Hi-Fi sound quality.

Fitted with a responsive 2.0 HDi 138hp engine, the C4 Picasso Lounge features a 6 speed fully automatic gearbox and delivers smooth acceleration with a top speed of 118mph and almost 40 mpg on the combined cycle. Based on the Exclusive trim level, the new model has a RRP of £23,995.

The C4 Picasso Lounge is designed for exemplary comfort. The roomy interior invites occupants to sit back and relax whilst the unique panoramic windscreen is enhanced by the massive sunroof that allows light to pour into the cabin, creating a bright and spacious environment.

At night time, the interior is bathed in atmospheric and functional illumination, including convenient reading lights for rear passengers. LEDs in the door handles and adjustable mood lighting strips in the front console and door panels help to create a calming environment.

The C4's unique fixed-centred controls steering wheel also puts many of the car's main functions at the driver's fingertips; ensuring driver attention is maintained on the road. Comprehensive driver assistance equipment includes cruise control, speed limiter, front and rear parking sensors, automatic digital air conditioning as well as rain-sensitive wipers and automatic headlights.

Citroen C4 Picasso Lounge

In addition to being one of the most comfortable vehicles on the road, with its self levelling pneumatic rear suspension, the C4 Picasso Lounge is also one of the safest, with its 7 seat stablemate having been awarded a maximum 5-star protection rating by Euro NCAP. Equipped with all the latest CitroÎn safety technology, the Lounge features ABS with EBD and EBA, ESP with traction control, seven airbags and a reinforced body structure to protect occupants and absorb the energy of an impact.

League Two
Saturday, February 16. KO 3pm

THE Robins are on a revival as they scrap away from the relegation spot in a bid to maintain league status next year.

Boss Brain Little took full advantage of the transfer window by bring in an entire new team, with eleven players arrive at the Racecourse last month.

But the recruitment drive has worked wonders from the Welsh side with wins against the top two, the Dons and Darlington, helping them to eight valuable points from their last four matches.

One player who will not feature for the Robins is Dons loanee Drewe Broughton, a clause in the striker's loan deal states he can not play against his parent club.

SWANSEA CITY
JPT Area Final First leg
Tuesday, February 19. KO 7pm
Liberty Stadium

TOP of League One play the top of League Two with both eyeing up a run out at Wembley.

The two sides are separated by 24 place and should there be a golf between the two divisions the first leg will certainly highlight it.

But Paul Ince has the luxury of knowing it is not all about what happens in the ninety minutes, as the all important second-leg will take place six days later at stadiummk.

Goalkeeper Willy Gueret, who made 155 appearances for the Swans in three years, will be hoping he gets the nod ahead of Nathan Abbey to show his old side what they are missing.

Home turf: Willy Gueret

AARON Wilbraham is set to be sidelined for a number of weeks.

The striker is currently recovering from medial ligament strain that he picked up in training last week.

As a precautionary measure Wilbraham is set to continue wearing the knee brace for a few days.

A BRACE from Sam Baldock helped MK Dons Under 18s beat Bristol City 3-0.

Reis Ashraf, currently on work experience with the Dons, scored in between Baldock's double, one coming courtesy of the penalty spot, as the Dons continued their good form.

Academy director, Mike Dove, was happy to see his team preserve their unbeaten run in 2008.

Dove said: "The boys have picked up some fantastic results since the turn of the year and to score three and concede none against a Championship club is a great return."

THE referee for this weekend's fixture against Wrexham has been announced.

Paul Armstrong will take charge of his tenth game this season, so far the Berkshire ref has handed out nineteen yellows and one red.

Meanwhile, Staffordshire's Anthony Bates has been given the control of the JPT game against Swansea City.

This season Bates has officiated in 24 matches, showing 62 yellows and dismissing two players.

Rotherham regroup to claim point after Brogan's leg break

Dons' Kevin Gallen goes from hero to zero as he scuffs a clear goal-scoring opportunity in the second half

A SERIOUS injury to Rotherham United's Stephen Brogan overshadowed MK Dons' 1-1 draw at stadiummk.

On Monday Dons boss Paul Ince and several first team players went to visit the midfielder in Milton Keynes General Hospital where he has had his leg pinned.

The Dons were leading 1-0 when the horror injury happened in the 55th minute, while both sets of players were clearly shaken by the incident Rotherham regathered to claim a point for their team mate.

The Dons had put on their best home display in some time and looked set to be claiming their first win on their own turf since New Year's Day.

But Danny Harrison's 20-yard rocket striker eight minutes from time was enough to cancel out Kevin Gallen's opener and secure a point for the Millers.

Gallen claimed his seventh goal of the season when he fired the Dons ahead on the 16th minute after picking up Keith Andrews' inch perfect pass, but wasted his chance to take his personal tally to eight in the second half.

Mark Wright, playing down the left flank with Lloyd Dyer on the right, delivered a great low cross in for Gallen who from point blank range seemed to scuff his kick, rolling the ball for goalie Andy Warrington to collect.

The Cowshed, on their feet, looked around in astonishment that the former-QPR striker had failed to double the Dons' advantage.

To compound his misery it was a costly miss as Harrison picked up the ball from outside the area and sent his strike into the top corner.

Gueret, who pulled off a spectacular save in the first-half from Chirs O'Grady's long range effort, was at hand deep in injury time to deny Harrison a late winner.

It would have been unfair for the Dons to lose so late in the game, especially after their possession and dominance in the first half should have put them out of sight.

Despite dropping two points at home fans would have been happy to see five points from three games after their January blip.

WHAT can I say?

Saturday's game left me with some very strange emotions.

Having seen us dominate a very good Rotherham side for long periods and to only walk away with a share of the spoils left us feeling more like we had been beaten.

To be blunt though, football was the furthest thing from my mind after witnessing the unfortunate accident between the young Rotherham winger Steven Brogan and our very own goalkeeper Willy Gueret.

As you can imagine, seeing the incident brought back a lot of old memories for me. I have to say though, very similar to my own experience, there was no malice or intent in the tackle whatsoever and I'm afraid these things can happen in the sport we play. I should know!

A big pat on the back has to go to the lads for the way they reacted, getting the medics and physios on straight away to give Stephen a great chance of carrying on his bright football future as I'm sure he will.

What's happened since then just goes to emphasise the characters of the people the Gaffer has brought in and has around him. I know the Gaffer has already been to see Stephen and the club has offered the player every courtesy to try to make his and his family's stay that tiny bit easier.

Having been there myself - I know it's tough. Saying that though, the littlest gesture goes a long way and if he receives half the support I have, he will be as good as new in no time. I think it goes without saying that we wish Stephen and his family all the best and a speedy recovery.

Hopefully by the time this is printed, he and his family will be back at home, we will have beaten Shrewsbury and will be looking forward to taking on a very dogged Wrexham side on Saturday. I can't wait.

See you there.

A FIRST league defeat in two months has cost MK Lions ground on BBL leaders Newcastle Eagles.

The Lions lost heavily at the hands of Scottish Rocks, who along with Plymouth Raiders moved into joint second place with MK, which has allowed the Eagles to move four points clear at the top.

On Saturday the Lions were able to get back on track with a comprehensive win over Birmingham Panthers but the gap remains the same between the top two and the Eagles still have a game in hand.

The Scottish Rocks had the better of the Lions from the start with a 7-0 burst proving to be a sign of things to come.

Mike New and Tony Windless were able to keep the Lions within a whisker, 20-23 down at the end of the first.

Then the wheels came off as the Rocks broke the game open with a 13-0 tear, with Vince Macauley's side unable to find their feet the guests added a further 12 points before the Lions, who trailed 31-55 at half-time, pinned back points from Terrell Brown and Yorick Williams.

Windless spearheaded a Lions response in the second half with four points in a 12-4 helping to narrow the deficit to 52-69.

It looked like the Lions would be able to stage a remarkable comeback as they continued to add the points through New and Windless, but at times they squandered possession allowing the Rocks to capitalise and claim a 67-89 victory.

But the Lions were able to put their no-show behind them to return to winning ways in convincing style at Birmingham.

The visitors were able to break a 4-4 tie with 10 unanswered points before the Panthers hit back to trail 16-23 after ten minutes.

Peter Heizer was instrumental in extending the Lions' lead in the second quarter with eight points either side of scores from Williams, stretching the lead to 51-28.

The game was beyond Panthers as Williams netted back-to-back threes to give the Lions a 72-32 advantage, before every player on the MK roster made it onto the score sheet to secure two vital points.

■ THIS Friday Lions host Guildford Heat, in their only match this weekend. Tip-off at Bletchley Leisure Centre is at 7.30pm.

Double loss blow to title hopes

PETERBOROUGH Phantoms dealt a double blow to MK Lightning's title hopes after condemning them to back-to-back defeats.

Patchy would be the best way to describe Lightning's form at the moment, last week they picked up maximum points but this time round with four available, were sent packing with nothing.

Fifth place Peterborough ensured this years meetings between the local rivals ended on an even tally with Lightning winning three and losing three of the six fixtures.

Ex-Lightning favourites James Morgan and Dwayne Newman, now Phantoms' coach, played a massive part in helping Peterborough to victory.

MK fell a goal down through Nathan Rempel's strike 13 minutes into the first period but Gary Clarke was on hand to take the scores level two minutes before the break.

It was in the second period that Peterborough took control with Morgan, Rempel and Adam Reynolds extended their lead to three goals.

But Lightning regathered to pull back two of their own with Ales Parez and Chris McEwen finding their way passed net minder Stephen Wall. Yet, Craig Peakcock's strike in the final minute ensured there was no way back for Lightning.

While fans in MK had been treated to an eight goal thriller the reverse fixture had just one separating the sides.

Both Lightning and Peterborough had plenty of chances to score, with 34 shots on goal each, but when both net minders Barry Hollyhead and Wall are named man of the match for their side it goes some way to show their part in the game.

And it took 55 minutes to break the deadlock with Lewis Buckman securing the win in a power play after McEwen had been penalised for delaying the game.

Lightning remain in third place, joint on points with Bracknell Bees and four points behind leaders Slough.

■ MK Lightning will be hoping to get their title chase back on track this Saturday when Guildford come to town. Face-off is at 7pm.

ATHLETICS

Chambers in – Pickering out

CRAIG Pickering has not been selected in the first wave of athletes to represent Great Britain in the World Indoor Championships.

The UK Athletic selectors have named an initial squad for the championship which take place in Valencia, Spain in March, it includes Dwain Chambers in the 60m.

The sprinter was banned from athletics for two years after testing positive for the performance-enhancing drug THG.

At the weekend Pickering suffered his first disappointing race of the season when he was left trailing in fifth place at the Norwich Union Championship Trails.

The Milton Keynes runner - a pre-race favourite - won his heat and semi-final running 6.73secs and 6.60secs respectively but slowed in the final with 6.70secs.

Instead it was the controversial figure of Dwain Chambers who crossed the line in first place with a time of 6.56secs.

Chambers' recorded time displaced Pickering as the third fastest man in the world this year.

Last year Pickering exploded on to the scene at the trails by beating his then training partner Jason Gardener, yet this time round the expectation on his shoulders fizzled out.

But it is not all bad news for Pickering as he has the chance to run again this weekend at the Norwich Union grand prix meeting in Birmingham.

Shrews tame the Dons

Last minute equaliser sees 3-0 lead squandered

Lloyd Dyer puts in a challenge on Shrewsbury keeper Glynn Garner

Sean O'Hanlon back from suspension battles for the ball against Shrewsbury

DEBUTANTE James Constable scored twice as Shrewsbury Town fought back from three goals down to draw 3-3 with league leaders MK Dons.

In a breathtaking game at the New Meadow the old football cliche 'a game of two halves' came true as a spirited fight back ensured the Dons were sent back down the motorway with one point instead of three.

Paul Ince's Dons had fired three into the net in the space of eight minutes, with Mark Wright's double extending his goal tally to eleven in the league, and Kevin Gallen also chipping in.

But twists and turns followed with Kelvin Langford nicking one back before Constable led the way, securing the draw with a dramatic injury time strike.

It was all Dons in the first half with every attacking opportunity seeming likely to end on a goal.

Yet the Shrews on home turf were not about to roll over and die with Gary Peters' half-time team talk providing the rocket needed.

Johnson was the first to call Garner into action when he broke free to fire a weak shot from Wright's cross, it turned out to be an easy collection for the Shrews keeper but a better connection could have caused problems.

Shrews struggled to keep up with the interchanging combination of Lloyd Dyer and Wright as the wide boys swapped flanks causing havoc for the fullbacks and opened gaps.

It seemed to be a case of when the Dons would score rather than if.

And the travelling support did not have to wait long, just moments after Constable had dragged his stretched effort wide the Dons were back in the Shrews half and a goal in front.

Dean Lewington's corner pinged around the Shrews' box before the ball found its way to Wright who simply took the ball on his chest and guided a half volley into the net.

Dons goals were like buses, when one arrived the second quickly followed. A stunning strike from Johnson on the edge of the 'D' deserved to put them two in front, but it hit the bar and, to the home side's despair, Kevin Gallen buried the rebound.

Five minutes later it was that man Johnson again creating the chances. Another long-range drive was denied by the fingertips of Garner only for Wright to pounce on the ball for the third.

While New Meadow groaned in their thousands, the Shrewsbury team were desperate for a fight-back.

Kevin McIntyre's corner provided a little hope at half-time as Langmead was able to pull one back with a powerful header at the near post.

Peters' side came out after the break looking more confident with the dead ball option looking like their best route back to level terms.

The Shrews were piling forward with relentless pressure making it a cracking match to watch.

Their spirited second-half display soon got rewards as substitute Chris Humphrey burst down the right, turned past Dean Lewington and tight to the by-line cut back for Constable to poke home on his full-debut for the Shrews.

But the Dons did not curb their attacking mindset either with Jude Stirling forcing an acrobatic save from Garner shortly after coming on for Dyer.

However, it was the Shrews who had the final say as Constable netted the equaliser in the first minute of injury time with an on-the-turn volley in a crowded Dons box.
